EIN Application Pending
Form 1023-Part II; Question 1

The Network for Women's Services ("NWS") has been established as a means of facilitating access to quality professional services for women who cannot afford such services. Initially, NWS will focus its efforts in the field of law and later in psychological and psychiatric counseling. In the future other professions may be utilized in the same manner. NWS will work with other social services organizations, whether operated by governmental organizations or privately as Code §501(c)(3) organizations, to identify populations of women in need of these professional services ("Women").

NWS's plan for the legal profession will involve first the identification of a group of individuals who teach or practice in the areas of matrimonial, family, immigration, health, employment, landlord/tenant, etc. laws ("Specialists"). NWS will also assemble a group of law firms who are interested in providing pro bono services to Women ("Firms"). Specialists will be paired with the Firms by NWS to enable each Firm to offer services to Women in areas of the law that are not routinely practiced by the Firm or where supervision is not regularly available. Specialists will also offer their services on a pro bono basis. It is expected that this activity will be implemented over the next 12 months and that NWS's coordinating efforts will be conducted by its staff.

NWS's plan for counseling professionals will begin in the second or third year with a counseling project directed toward breaking the cycle of abuse and victimization of women. The counseling project will involve first a research project to analyze the particular counseling services needed by Women who are abused and/or victimized. This research project will be implemented by assembling a nationwide advisory board of counseling professionals with experience in the field, gathering data and analyzing the various methods and strategies that may be effective in breaking the cycle of victimization. The data will then be used as the basis for developing the second phase of the counseling project, which is the creation of a training program to educate professionals about the best means for dealing with the victimization issue. These professionals will then form the basis for the third part of the counseling project, the creation of a network of counseling professionals who will offer their services on a pro bono basis or reduced cost basis to Women. It is expected that the research project will take approximately 12 months and
